

I have a business and would like to charge my 'home unl...

Author:
www.freespeech.ie

Created On: 02 Jan 2008 03:34 PM

If the phone is for only residential usage then a home unlimited account can be used. Who pays for your residential calls is not our concern (but it may be your accountants).

If you are using your phone for business then you should have small business unlimited account.

If you want to make business calls and residential calls then you should have two accounts, one in the name of your business and one in your personal name.